NOBILE AND 9 RESCUE CREWS MEN AWAITING

At Emergency Radio Station On Arctic Ice; Two Other Groups Try For Land

KINGS BAY, June 12.—General Umberto Nobile and nine of his men, with frozen hands and feet, are at their emergency radio station on the Arctic ice while two parties of three men each of the dirigible Italia's crew are trying separately to reach land. Radio Operator Giuseppe Biagi wirelessly the Citti Di Milano today.

One party of three men had been reported previously as missing.

Today's messages from the Italia's radio station said that General Nobile, the dirigible's commander, had gone out from the radio station with another three men to try to march westward and reach land.

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 12.—Confronted by the most severe handicaps, rescue expeditions today prepared to rush relief to the suffering crew of the lost dirigible Italia, now split into three groups in the unknown wastes off Northeastland.

Lieutenant Leutow-Holm, valorous Norwegian flyer who was among the first to volunteer his services in this great relief work, is marooned on Mossel Bay, his airplane without fuel. It will be several days before the steamer Braganza can reach him.

Although disconcerted by reports of difficulties encountered by Leutow-Holm, Captain H. Riiser-Larsen planned to fly to the immediate territory where some of the Italia's crew are reported drifting with the ice, suffering from exposure, cold and lack of food. He will carry food and medicines to the game Italian explorers.

Reports of difficulties encountered by Leutow-Holm were relayed to Kings Bay by the steamer Braganza. The steamer said that Leutow-Holm, flying over the frozen territory in search of the Nobile party, twice had made forced landings before finally being marooned. Once he landed on Brandy Bay and once on New Frie Island.

Previously reports said that Leutow-Holm had sighted two members of the Italia's crew on Brandy Bay. The latest advices from the Braganza did not mention this but that steamer is prepared to go to Leutow-Holm's aid as soon as possible.

Meanwhile General Umberto Nobile and six of his comrades—one of the three groups off the Italia—were reported attempting to reach the Braganza, about 125 miles from their position. Two members of Nobile's party are injured, one of them with a broken leg.

They are on floating ice, it was believed, and many considered their efforts to reach the ship were fruitless. Their way is barred by glaciers that abound in the northern waters.

The other two groups off the Polar dirigible are somewhat separated from Nobile. In one group are six men and they are on an ice block about 30 kilometers east of Nobile, advices said. Three men comprise the other group and have not been successful in communicating with Nobile's party, from whom all the messages have come.

This third group is said to be without adequate clothing.

300 Visit Great Logan Elm In Two Days It Is Found

The spring and early summer pilgrimage of tourists has started. That is evidenced in Circleville by glancing at the registry book at the Logan Elm cabin. Around 300 names of persons from all over the country have been recorded on the book on Sunday and Monday, a reporter for The Herald discovered Monday night on visiting this historic spot where Logan made his remarkable speech.

The great old elm has withstood the onslaughts of winter in very good shape, an inspection of the tree disclosed.

TRIUMPHS IN SLOGAN GAME OF MERCHANTS

W. L. Funk Wins Contest; Mrs. Harold Eveland Second; Other Winners

It was a long job the three judges had in checking over the many answers received in the Slogan contest, to find the winners of the prize money. It was a job to find the select few who had the complete set of correct answers and then the prizes were awarded in the order in which they were received at The Herald office.

The results showed that the ones who took a little more time in getting their answers in were the ones who had most of the answers correct, so the old saying "Haste makes waste" still holds true.

Some of the participants thought that "His Master's Voice" was the slogan for the Edison Victrola. "Time to Retire" was in the home and "The Choice of the Majority" was the Ford car. It may be but it wasn't the answer to No. 9. There were all kinds of answers and all kinds of work for the judges but here are the winners:

First Prize $25—W. L. Funk, 202 N. Pickaway-st.

Second Prize $10—Mrs. Harold Eveland, 143 1/2 W. Main-st.

Third Prize $5—Miss Eleanor Brown, 274 E. Union-st.

Four to Fourteenth prizes—$1 each—Harold Eveland, 143 1/2 W. Main-st.; Mrs. Rockford Brown, 374 E. Union-st.; Homer G. Ward, Jr., 155 Watt-st.; John G. Ward, Jr., W. Main-st.; F. A. Cryder, 307 Watt-st.; Miss Blanche Valentine, Circleville, O.; Miss Florence Stout, 219 W. Mill-st.; David Steinhauer, 149 W. Mount-st.

The judges selected to check the answers and award the prizes were F. A. Lynch, President of The Chamber of Commerce, Clark Will, Pres. Circleville Rotary Club and A. C. Moore, General manager of the Mid-West Box Co.

If the prize winners will call at The Herald office they can receive their award.

MILL IN CITY IS BOUGHT BY LONDON FIRM

Expected To Resume Operations Now, Giving Employment To Men

The Circleville Milling Company's mills located on E. Mill-st. and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company tracks, has been sold and transferred by the owner, John T. Arnold to Don M. Casto. The latter transferred the deed to the London Mills Company of which J. A. Long is President.

Mr. Long is associated with his brother in the operation of the Long Mills Company at London, Ohio.

A new incorporated company known as the London Mills Company, will operate the property in this city, and will open the mills in the near future, announcement of which will be made in this paper.

The Circleville Milling Company mill was sold by the Heffner Milling Company in 1918 to Fred O. Shane of Philadelphia, Pa. since then the mill has changed hands, and was last sold by Charles Gerhardt to John T. Arnold of Bradford.

The old mill has a capacity of 500 barrels of meal a day. During the time it was operated by the Heffner family a barrel a minute was the average output.

The new firm is an incorporation made up mostly of London business men, who will operate the mill.

The mill is in the finest location in Central Ohio, the richest valley in the state, which produces more grain and better quality of corn than any other section. Since the receivership and sale of the valuable property the mill has been closed four years.

The new owners are grain men of experience, and will no doubt go into the business to manufacture meal and other flours and bring back to the mill the former prosperity it once enjoyed.

HERBERT HOOVER

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—When William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, dropped his gavel shortly before noon today and opened the Republican convention here, Herbert Hoover was favored to win the nomination to fight for the highest position in America? But will he win that nomination? That was the question that propounded many a doubt for visitors at the big G. O. P. rally in years.

COOLIDGE SEES PROSPERITY IF MONEY IS SAVED

Urges Local And State Governments To Curtail Expenditures

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Coolidge foresees further and greater prosperity for the United States, but he believes it is necessary for state and local governments to curtail their expenditures if America's tide of good fortune is to continue at the flood.

The president, speaking at the government's semi-annual business meeting last night, gave this combined prediction and warning, pointing out that all classes of government cost the country more than $11,000,000,000 a year.

"We have been favored with a long-continued era of prosperity," he said. "Year after year the tide of good fortune has steadily risen. It seems not yet to have reached its flood. * * * I can conceive no more dependable guaranty of genuine prosperity than a nationwide effort in behalf of less and wiser spending by state and local governments."

He pointed out that in the period 1921-25 total federal, state and local governmental expenditures increased nearly $2,000,000,000 a year. In this period the federal government cut expenditures by $2,000,000,000.

Mr. Coolidge predicted a surplus of more than $400,000,000 for the fiscal year ending in 18 days, but he warned that the prospects are that expenditures and revenues will nearly balance thereafter, with a possible deficit. He emphasized need of government economies on the assembled business and government chiefs, in a plea to prevent government expenditures from running into the billions of dollars.

Government expenditures for the fiscal year ending in 18 days, he said, will be $3,000,000,000 and revenues are estimated at only $2,600,000,000.

MRS. COOLIDGE ILL SO TRIP IS POSTPONED

President To Remain At Wife's Bedside While Wisconsin Vacation Waits

BY ROBERT N. MOOREFIELD
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—With his vacation plans postponed indefinitely, President Coolidge was expected today to remain here at least the rest of this week, to give Mrs. Coolidge time to gather strength for the long trip to the summer white house in Wisconsin.

A relapse of the indisposition which has kept Mrs. Coolidge inactive all this spring except for trips to the bedside of her mother in Massachusetts, caused the sudden postponement of the departure last night, less than two hours before the presidential special train was scheduled to start its 35-hour journey to Brule, in northern Wisconsin.

Mrs. Coolidge is in bed under care of the two official white house physicians, who reported her illness was "non serious."

The indisposition confined Mrs. Coolidge to bed earlier in the day, but after a consultation it was announced that the trip would be started as scheduled. But while the president was making his speech to the semi-annual business meeting of government executives, Mrs. Coolidge's physician, Lieutenant-Commander Joel T. Boone and the president's medical adviser, Colonel James Couper, decided it would be best not to subject the first lady to the rigors of the long trip.

STATE GIVES ITS DELEGATION OVER TO G. O. P. LEADER

SEVENTY-NINE VOTES OF KEYSTONE STATE GIVES COMMERCE HEAD 545 VOTES NECESSARY TO MAKE HIM REPUBLICAN STANDARD BEARER

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—Herbert Hoover this afternoon was practically assured of his nomination as Republican candidate for president.

The "break" that made his nomination a certainty came when the Pennsylvania delegation decided to cast its entire 79 votes for the secretary of commerce. This assured him of the 545 votes necessary to nominate.

While the report is not an official ballot, it gives Hoover the G. O. P. leadership for a certainty and unless something unprecedented happens he will be the Republican standard bearer at the November election.

From Washington comes reports that Hoover conferred with President Coolidge and Attorney General Sargent today just a few minutes before the gavel fell opening the Kansas City convention.

The commerce secretary arrived at the White House at 10:15 a. m., EST.

With dramatic swiftness today, the forces dominating the convention set the machinery in nomination for Hoover exactly as predicted by the United Press last night and early today on the basis of private conferences among the leaders.

Just before the Pennsylvania capitulation to the Hoover drive, Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National committee and the confidant of the president, announced that President Coolidge was neutral in the presidential fight.

He declared for Hoover last night as first announced by the United Press. But he did not wish that to be construed as due to the influence of the silent man in the White House.

Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, seconded Mellon's motion for endorsement of Hoover.

"At the time of the conference in Philadelphia," Mellon said, "it was in doubt what President Coolidge would do as to another nomination."

"It now appears he won't accept the nomination."

"It therefore, appears that it is wise to select a man who will best carry forward the policies of the administration."

"As I said at the Philadelphia meeting, it seems to me that Secretary of Commerce Hoover is the best fitted man in the country to carry forward these policies. I therefore urge that the delegation cast its votes for him for president on the first ballot."

Convention Sidelight

BY UNITED PRESS.

Some delegates apparently come in pairs, and the sight of twin brothers from California has made more than one delegate rub his eyes and wonder what was wrong with these organs. The brothers are Judge Charles S. Crail, superior judge of Los Angeles, and Joe Crail, representative from the Hollywood district.

"North Dakota wants Lowden," read an inscription on the war drum of R. R. Cline, Minnewanakan, N. D., publisher and adopted chief of the Sioux Indians. Cline was dressed in Indian attire and added to the varied aspect of the hotel crowds here.

Osro Cobb, 24, of Caddo Gap, Ark., is believed to be the youngest delegate to the convention. He also is a member of the Arkansas legislature.

The ticket of Andrew W. Mellon and Senator James Watson for vice president was advocated here in a pamphlet circulated around convention hall and hotels. The statement was signed by I. A. Smith.

Several young women were seen along Twelfth-st., wearing bands on their ankles advertising one of the outstanding candidates.

Will Rogers announced the "greatest political plank in history." He promised to resign if elected on his "bunkless" ticket.

BOLL PLANE NOW OVERDUE ON TRIP

OLD ORCHARD, ME., June 12.—Long overdue here Miss Mabel Boll in the Trans-Atlantic monoplane, Columbia, which hopped off early today from Roosevelt Field was believed to have continued her flight further northward, possibly to Newfoundland.

Many persons were still at the beach landing place here in hopes the Columbia would make this its first stop on the attempted trans-Atlantic flight.

The new firm is an incorporation made up mostly of London business men, who will operate the mill.

The mill is in the finest location in Central Ohio, the richest valley in the state, which produces more grain and better quality of corn than any other section. Since the receivership and sale of the valuable property the mill has been closed four years.

The new owners are grain men of experience, and will no doubt go into the business to manufacture meal and other flours and bring back to the mill the former prosperity it once enjoyed.

TRIUMPHS IN SLOGAN GAME OF MERCHANTS

W. L. Funk Wins Contest; Mrs. Harold Eveland Second; Other Winners

It was a long job the three judges had in checking over the many answers received in the Slogan contest, to find the winners of the prize money. It was a job to find the select few who had the complete set of correct answers and then the prizes were awarded in the order in which they were received at The Herald office.

The results showed that the ones who took a little more time in getting their answers in were the ones who had most of the answers correct, so the old saying "Haste makes waste" still holds true.

"Some of the participants thought that 'His Master's Voice' was the slogan for the Edison Victrola, 'Time to Retire' was in the home and 'The Choice of the Majority' was the Ford car. It may be but it wasn't the answer to No. 9. There were all kinds of answers and all kinds of work for the judges but here are the winners:

First Prize $25—W. L. Funk, 202 N. Pickaway-st.

Second Prize $10—Mrs. Harold Eveland, 148½ W. Main-st.

Third Prize $5—Miss Eleanor Brown, 374 E. Union-st.

Four to Fourteenth prizes—$1 each—Harold Eveland, 148½ W. Main-st.; Mrs. Rockford Brown, 374 E. Union-st.; Homer Wolfe, Jr., W. Main-st.; Mrs. James F. Denman, Jr., 158 Watt-st.; John G. Ward, Jr., W. Main-st.; F. A. Cryder, 307 Watt-st.; Miss Blanche Valentine, Circleville, O.; Miss Florence Stout, 219 W. Mill-st.; David Steinhauer, 149 W. Mound-st.

The judges selected to check the answers and award the prizes were F. A. Lynch, President of The Chamber of Commerce, Clark Will, Pres. Circleville Rotary Club and A. C. Moore, General manager of the Mid-West Box Co. If the prize winners will call at The Herald office they can receive their award.

EVACUATION OF CITY PEACEFUL

SHANGHAI, June 12.—Peaceful evacuation of Tien Tsin by the Nationalist army was expected today after the northern forces had quietly withdrawn from the city.

General Chang Tsung-Chang, who had demanded $1,000,000 for his peaceful surrender of the important northern Chinese city, probably will retreat towards Lan-chow, latest advices here said. Chang's effort to profit by the peaceful retreat apparently has met with the most complete failure.

At Emergency Radio Station On Arctic Ice; Two Other Groups Try For Land

KINGS BAY, June 12.—General Umberto Nobile and nine of his men, with frozen hands and feet, are at their emergency radio station on the Arctic ice while two parties of three men each of the dirigible Italia's crew are trying separately to reach land. Radio Operator Giuseppe Biagi wirelessly the Citti Di Milano today.

One party of three men had been reported previously as missing.

Today's messages from the Italia's radio station said that General Nobile, the dirigible's commander, had gone out from the radio station with another three men to try to march westward and reach land.

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 12.—Confronted by the most severe handicaps, rescue expeditions today prepared to rush relief to the suffering crew of the lost dirigible Italia, now split into three groups in the unknown wastes off Northeastland.

Lieutenant Leutzow-Holm, valorous Norwegian flyer who was among the first to volunteer his services in this great relief work, is marooned on Mossel Bay, his airplane without fuel. It will be several days before the steamer Braganza can reach him.

Although difficulties encountered by Leutzow-Holm, Captain H. Riser-Larsen planned to fly to the immediate territory where some of the Italia's crew are reported drifting with the ice, suffering from exposure, cold and lack of food. He will carry food and medicines to the game Italian explorers.

Reports of difficulties encountered by Leutzow-Holm were relayed to Kings Bay by the steamer Braganza. The steamer said that Leutzow-Holm, flying over the frozen territory in search of the Nobile party, twice had made forced landings before finally being marooned. Once he landed on Brandy Bay and once on New Frie Island.

Previously reports said that Leutzow-Holm had sighted two members of the Italia's crew on members of the Braganza did not mention this but that steamer is prepared to go to Leutzow-Holm's aid as soon as possible.

Meanwhile General Umberto Nobile and six of his comrades—one of the three groups off the Italia—were reported attempting to reach the Braganza, about 125 miles from their position. Two members of Nobile's party are injured, one of them with a broken leg.

They are on floating ice, it was believed, and many considered their efforts to reach the ship were fruitless. Their way is barred by glaciers that abound in the northern waters.

The other two groups off the Polar dirigible are somewhat separated from Nobile. In one group are six men and they are on an ice block about 30 kilometers east of Nobile, advices said. Three men comprise the other group and have not been successful in communicating with Nobile's party, from whom all the messages have come.

This third group is said to be without adequate clothing.

Then the "Star Spangled Banner" by Mrs. Schumann-Heink, a pause for the explosion of flashlights and the taking of official pictures, a rap of the gavel by Chairman Butler, and finally his address which would mark the beginning of more political oratory than this country has seen in four years.

Senator Simon D. Fess of Ohio, temporary chairman of the convention, was next on the program with his address. Routine organization of the convention was then in order and the delegates could proceed to the business of their committee work and finally balloting.

A scene unique in the world's political institutions, the staging of a national convention with all its hilarity at one moment and momentous seriousness the next, was unfolded in all its 1928 dimensions.

In front of the speaker's stand, spread the arena where citizens of forty-eight states gathered to select a man whom they hoped would be next president of the United States. The traditional white cards, bearing the names of the states and tacked on the end of a standard, loomed above the chairs dotting the enclosure.

Alternates were packed in at the right and left. Up from the main floor reared three rows of balconies, shooting up into the roof to an altitude from which either sight or hearing seemed impossible. The platform, reserved for distinguished persons and so designated by a band of satin decoration superior to the bunting in use elsewhere, spread out on an elevation to the right and left of the speaker's rostrum.

On either side of this elevation was a lower platform, also extending toward both sides of the wall on which more than 1,000 newspapermen aided by telegraph operators, noiseless typewriters and muffled typewriters, prepared to tell the United States and the rest of the world what the show is all about.

Propped against the platform was a radio microphone installation, with Graham MacNamee behind it, ready to tell millions on the air the story of a presidential nomination.

Suspended from one side of the hall was another platform, where photographers shooting from mid-air, were to take the movie and still photographs for the edification of those who like their news in pictures.

Work Of Checking Up Assets Of Defunct Institution Has Been Completed

About 100 persons visited the First-Citizens National bank of Mt. Sterling, last week, and availed themselves of the opportunity of gaining access to their safety deposit boxes for the first time since the bank's doors were closed, May 19.

Contrary Motion

A contrary motion in music is when the parts proceed in opposite directions. For instance, if the treble part goes F G A B C and the alto, tenor, or bass proceed F E D C B at the same time the parts are said to proceed in contrary motion. Such have to be played in this way for most examinations in piano playing.

What is a Railroad?

AN aggregate of track, cars, locomotives, shops, stations—an assortment of tangible things? Steel, iron, brick, concrete, inanimate pieces of machinery and equipment?

No! A railroad is a human machine; an aggregate of the brain and brawn of thousands of loyal, conscientious workmen. Without their intelligence and strength, all the iron and steel, the cars and locomotives that represent a railroad, to the average person would be quite useless.

A railroad is alive, an aggregate of human endeavor to serve. It has character, spirit, ideals: the composite of the characters, the spirit and the ideals of the men and women engaged in the great public service of transportation.

Because of this, the Norfolk and Western Railway has been successful in its efforts to furnish adequate, efficient, economical service to the traveling and shipping public. Because its 30,000 employees have ideals and character, the railroad has translated these qualities into terms of a satisfactory public service. Because the Norfolk and Western Railway is alive; an aggregate of human endeavor to serve, it promises all that could be desired in the character and quality of its services.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Governor Alfred E. Smith will not attend the Democratic national convention at Houston, but a large radio set which has been installed in the executive chambers will keep him in touch with the balloting.

Smith is expected to be away from his desk for the next week, having left last night for Niagara Falls where Niagara University will confer the degree of doctor of laws on his life-long friend, William H. Kenny. The governor also will dedicate Whirlpool Park, the new state reservation near Niagara Falls.

WELFARE CONFAB AT LOGAN WILL ATTRACT CROWD

Circleville And Pickaway-Co Urged To Support Conference On June 13

The Welfare Department of the State of Ohio has called a district convention of the counties of Pickaway, Fairfield, Perry, Hocking and Athens to be held at Logan on Wednesday, June 13th, 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m.

All phases of Child Welfare Work will be discussed.

The theme of Juvenile Delinquency and Delinquency, Ways and Means of its Prevention and Cure, Mothers' Pensions, What the State is Doing; How the State Department can be aided by individuals and organizations interested in Bettering Conditions in their Communities, will be the subject matter.

Remember this is a State of Ohio proposition, the money for the work done in your community is raised by taxation in the State as a whole and not by donations, or drives.

What the Department desires is a representative delegation from each church, civic body and each community to attend this conference to learn what the State can and will do for its community by the co-operation of the people.

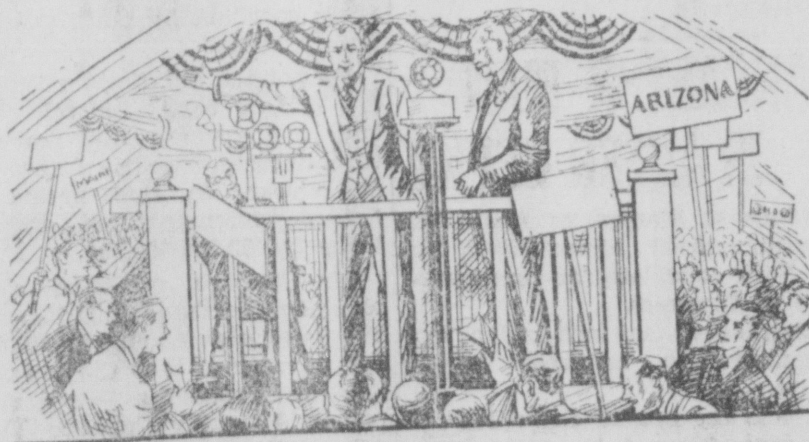

If you have a car and can take some one with you or if you should like to go and have no means of conveyance, call Noah Spangler, county chairman.

Contrary Motion

A contrary motion in music is when the parts proceed in opposite directions. For instance, if the treble part goes F G A B C and the alto, tenor, or bass proceed F E D C B at the same time the parts are said to proceed in contrary motion. Scales have to be played in this way for most examinations in piano playing.

His Preference

A Scotch member of a golf course near London took a business friend for a day's golfing. After the morning round they lunched very sparingly on biscuits and cheese. "Man," cried the enthusiastic Scot as he gazed through an open window, "this is my favorite course. Isn't it yours?" "Er—not exactly," replied the starving guest. "I should have preferred a good steak and onions." London Answers.

A tough, durable finish for floors

Kitchen, bathroom, and hallway floors need an enamel finish that is extra tough and wear-resisting.

For these floors we recommend LOWE BROTHERS FLOOR ENAMEL. It is a finish that is easy to clean and one that will last. It has unusual spreading capacity and is very economical. It dries hard and smooth overnight. Also makes an excellent finish for kitchen walls and woodwork. Many colors from which to choose.

What is a Railroad?

AN aggregate of track, cars, locomotives, shops, stations—an assortment of tangible things? Steel, iron, brick, concrete, inanimate pieces of machinery and equipment?

No! A railroad is a human machine; an aggregate of the brain and brawn of thousands of loyal, conscientious workmen. Without their intelligence and strength, all the iron and steel, the cars and locomotives that represent a railroad, to the average person would be quite useless.

A railroad is alive, an aggregate of human endeavor to serve. It has character, spirit, ideals; the composite of the characters, the spirit and the ideals of the men and women engaged in the great public service of transportation.

Because of this, the Norfolk and Western Railway has been successful in its efforts to furnish adequate, efficient, economical service to the traveling and shipping public. Because its 30,000 employees have ideals and character, the railroad has translated these qualities into terms of a satisfactory public service. Because the Norfolk and Western Railway is alive; an aggregate of human endeavor to serve, it promises all that could be desired in the character and quality of its services.

COOLIDGE IN THE WOODS

There is something rather significant in President Coolidge's choice of vacation spots.

Two years ago he went to an out-of-the-way spot in the Adirondacks, close to the big population centers in an air line, but effectively isolated from them in reality.

Last year he went to a mountain lodge in the Black Hills of South Dakota, to bask in the utter quiet and solitude of the distant west.

This year he will spend his summer on a wilderness estate in northern Wisconsin not far from Lake Superior. For all its nearness to the bustling cities of Superior and Duluth, this spot is as isolated and remote as his previous summer homes.

Throughout most of the year the president is subjected to an everlasting crush of people. There is never any relief. Not for a moment can he relax and forget that he is chief executive of a great nation. People—people—people; they surround him every minute of the day.

In such circumstances a change becomes imperative. When it comes time for a vacation the only spot that offers any inducement to the president is some place in the wilderness; some place far from city or town, where a man can be alone with himself. So President Coolidge selects, first the Adirondacks, then the Black Hills; then the Wisconsin forests.

No one is under such pressure as the president. Yet his problem is, to a certain extent, the problem of nearly all of us. The tremendous popularity of automobile touring in the summer is evidence of it. So is the great growth of the "summer resort"—the frame hotel by lake or river, the cabin in the mountains, the cottage in the small town.

Modern America is getting very populous and busy; even the least important of citizens finds his life more and more trespassed on by strangers. There is no time for introspection or self-communion. Although modern life has trebled man's need of detachment in which he can orient his inner self to the outer tumult, it makes it continually harder for him to get it.

So vacations are vital to us. And to most of us, like President Coolidge, the vacation means a chance to withdraw for a moment from the press and rush of the daily job—a chance to get by ourselves, taste the elemental joys of sunshine, clean winds, lonely countryside and solitude, and thereby draw new strength for another year of work.

THE WAY OF THE UNDERWORLD

Murders are not uncommon in our larger cities. Nor is it uncommon for a shooting to be explained by the police as "part of an underworld war." The bootleggers, gangsters and racketeers have a way of settling their disputes without outside help. A business rival, an upstart gang lieutenant or a squealer is quietly pistolled on a dark street, and things go on as before.

Police seldom are able to bring the slayers to justice, as the parties involved—even the wounded men—will not talk. But after all, we needn't feel so badly about it. In its own rough way the underworld is keeping its population down. Acts of violence are regrettable, of course, but the death of a beer baron or a gambling king is no loss to society.

A NEW PLAN TO END WAR
Lieut.-Gen. Fritz Helm of Denmark has a new scheme for preventing war. It probably won't get adopted, but it sounds as if it might be effective.

TAKES

It takes A lot
Of tryin'
If you're gonna Win the race,
And perhaps
A little cryin'
For it's not an easy
Pace; Takes a lot of Losin',
Lot of blue days with
The nice
For a fellow
Can't be choosin', Cannot always Set his Price—
Takes a smile that Can't rub off, Takes a willingness
To try
And a laugh to turn
A scoff
'Till you die—
Sure you lose, for It's the game
If you won each Fight you Fought
It indeed would be A shame
Life has taught
Now and then
A man should fail Tryin' for his Goal,
Or he'll always Moan and Wall—
Lose his soul—

And what we mean to say Is,
Keep a-hopin' you will Win,
Keep a-tryin' in the Fight,
Keep up all your Rugged din,
And be right;
You may lose, but say,
It's fun
To have known you Really tried
When the fight is really Done—
Have I lied?

soul and it also booms the ego.

The girl with the prettiest feet had her picture taken with her seven inches above her knees.

We don't even remember seeing her feet, Bob.

We often hear them say, "I wonder what she's wearing?" It doesn't take long to find out on a windy day.

We often wonder what they used to do to them in the old days when they came out of the corner saloon and drove their horses in an intoxicated condition.

SYNOPSIS Lovely Rose Shannon, one of the loving girls of Kelly's kingdom in the Bowery, has attracted the attention of Chuck White. He escorts her home. Later he tries to make passionate love to her. In desperation she seizes a clock and strikes him with it. Chuck drops unconscious. Terrified that she has killed him, Rose hastily packs her things and rushes into the night, fleeing through the darkened streets. She stumbles suddenly across a satchel marked "Mercer National Bank." On her way to return it she is met by a police man on the trail of the bandits. He accuses her of being an accomplice.

CHAPTER IV—Continued
"Oh, so you're going to talk now?"
The policeman looked down at her with a broad grin that was tinged with sarcasm. "Sure, 'a you'd better listen to me, sister; just save it for the Sergeant. He'll be tickled to death to hear all about it. It's a new one, all right. Hey, Murphy," he threw up his hand as another blue-coat came running up. "I've caught a real prize this time. Look here." He pointed to the satchel in the ground and then at the girl.
The second officer leaned over and examined the bag.

"I'll say you have. You hang on to 'em. I'll get the black marks," he started around the corner for he called box.
"But I tell you I found it," Rose was sobbing in real earnest now.

"All we could do was to throw our hands in the air."

But her tears had no other effect than to cause the officer to grasp her more tightly.
"Listen, sister, I told you to save it for the Sergeant!"

CHAPTER V
At the Central Police Station, Sergeant Cassidy sat nodding drowsily before a heavy oak desk.
His round, red face, weather-beaten and seamed from his long years on the force, was thrown into shadow by the green-shaded lights sent toward here and there about the room. A few detectives lounged about, smoking dizzily, their feet propped up on chairs. Over in one corner a game of black-jack occurred several others. Everything was quiet through the precinct—everything save for the robbery of the Mercer Bank. And they'd probably have that rounded up before the morning.

But their lethargy was shortly dispelled by the entrance of two policemen accompanying a tall man. The three strode up to the desk and the two blue-coats saluted.
"Good evening, Sergeant," one of the officers stepped forward.
"This is Mr. Daniels, the Cashier at the Mercer National Bank. We brought him along to get the facts in this robbery affair tonight."

"Howdy, Mr. Daniels," Sergeant Cassidy looked up from his desk and nodded. "Cowles-Simpson?" he called. At his summons two of the men who had been in the game unwinded their legs and got up and moved over beside the Sergeant's desk. "This is Mr. Daniels, the Cashier in that bank robbery tonight," he informed the two detectives. "These men will be working on the case. Mr. Daniels, providing the police don't turn up with the money." He turned to the Cashier, who nodded to the two sleuths.
"Now, Mr. Daniels, you might give us some idea of just how this robbery occurred."

"Well, I can't exactly tell you, Sergeant," Daniels removed his hat, revealing a shock of straight black hair slightly tinged with gray. "I'm a little nervous and upset—you can understand that. I'm sure. Hawkins, our teller, was pretty badly shot up—wrist shattered. They've taken him to the hospital. But I'm only too willing to help in any way I can."

"Well, the best thing you can do is to give me your version of the affair," the Sergeant answered.

LIVE STOCK NEWS

MARKET MILLET
HAY BY STEERS

That millet hay can be more economically marketed through feeder steers than cattle hay was shown at the Washington County Cattle Feeders' day at Akron, Colo., before a crowd of 200 interested farmers and live stock men.

Forty-six head of Aberdeen Angus steer calves were divided into two lots and fed two rations made up largely of home-grown feeds.
Millet and cane hays, two of the surest dry land roughage, were used in the test to determine their value in producing fleshy feeders.

The results indicate that the farmer with cane or millet hays, for which there has been almost no market, can convert them into cash through cattle to advantage.

The steers in one lot were fed ground barley, corn and cob meal, cottonseed meal, cane hay and a small amount of mineral and salt.
The other lot received identically the same ration except millet hay was substituted for cane hay.

The millet hay lot made an average daily gain of 2.12 pounds for the 30 days of the test, at a feed cost of $6.45 per 100 pounds gain.
After figuring feed, interest, shipping and selling costs the animals must bring $9.48 per 100 pounds to pay out. This allows a margin of profit in the light of present prices.
The calves in the cane hay lot gained an average of 1.8 pounds per day at a feed cost of $6.71 per 100 pounds gain, and will show a profit if sold for over $9.73 per 100 pounds.
The steers were shipped to Denver immediately after the feederday program where they were exhibited at the stock show a few days before being sold.

The cattle were owned and fed by A. A. Finkler of Akron who co-operated in the demonstration with J. C. Foster, extension agent in Washington county, and B. W.
Fairbanks, live stock specialist of the Colorado Agricultural college.

Pasture Is Essential to Brood Sow and Pigs

If possible, the brood sow while nursing a litter of pigs should be on a good green pasture of some kind. If it is late in the fall or early in the spring so that pasture is not available, the sow should have all of the good green alfalfa hay she cares to eat. Corn can then be fed as the principal grain to the brood sow provided it is properly supplemented with other feeds.

Feed in addition to the corn either some oats, middlings, or wheat bran. Then, in addition to this, the sow should have either some milk or buttermilk or some dried protein supplement such as tankage or a mixture of tankage with linseed or cottonseed meal.

A ration of 75 per cent corn, 20 per cent either oats, middlings or bran and 5 per cent tankage or a protein mixture of tankage and oil-meal or cottonseed meal would make a very satisfactory ration for such a sow. If skim milk or buttermilk is used, two to four gallons of milk per sow per day could be used.

Ripe Millet Hay Hard on Kidneys of Cattle

Ripe millet hay has much the same kind of food value as timothy hay except that it seems to be rather hard on the kidneys. Also there seems to be some tendency for the hairs on the heads to accumulate in the stomachs of cattle. On this account it is best to be on the safe side and feed it about half and half with some other roughage.
It seems to be especially important to do this with horses because the kidneys of horses seem to be more susceptible to the influence of millet hay than the kidneys of cattle.
Ripe millet hay when forming not more than one-half the roughage ration should be satisfactory.

LIVE STOCK SQUIBS

Alfalfa pasture is the foundation of cheap pork production on thousands of farms.

Rickets in cattle, swine and poultry are very common troubles and are causing considerable loss.

For growing out and feeding breeding animals becomes an invaluable while they can be used to a very economical advantage in fattening rations.

Since hay and fodder with the addition of a pound of cottonseed oil or linseed oil for each cow daily will carry them through the winter in good condition.

Equal parts of shelled corn and oats will make a good grain ration to use in getting the calf started on feed. The amount of feed at the start will depend somewhat on the size of the calf.

PIG SPECIAL TO AGAIN STOP IN PICKAWAY-CO

On June 19 Farmers Will Have Chance To See
Swine Demonstration

Just a year ago, close to 400 Pickaway-co farmers enjoyed the postmortem demonstrations and the lectures which were given during the Swine Special which stopped at Mt. Sterling and Orient.

On Tuesday, June 19th, from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m., the Grow Healthy Pig Special will make one stop in Pickaway-co at Derby.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad, Ohio Experiment Station, United States Department of Agriculture, and the Pickaway County Farm Bureau are cooperating in this program to furnish practical information to our livestock farmers as to a means of meeting the diseases and ravages caused through infestation of round worm in our Pickaway-co hog lot. The program will consist in post mortem demonstrations of infected pigs, moving pictures showing the life habits of the young worm and methods of combating it; lectures on "Feeding and Swine Management," by Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the Bureau of the Animal Industry, Ohio Experiment Station and a lecture by Dr. E. M. Nighbert, United States Department of Agriculture on "Saving the Pigs."

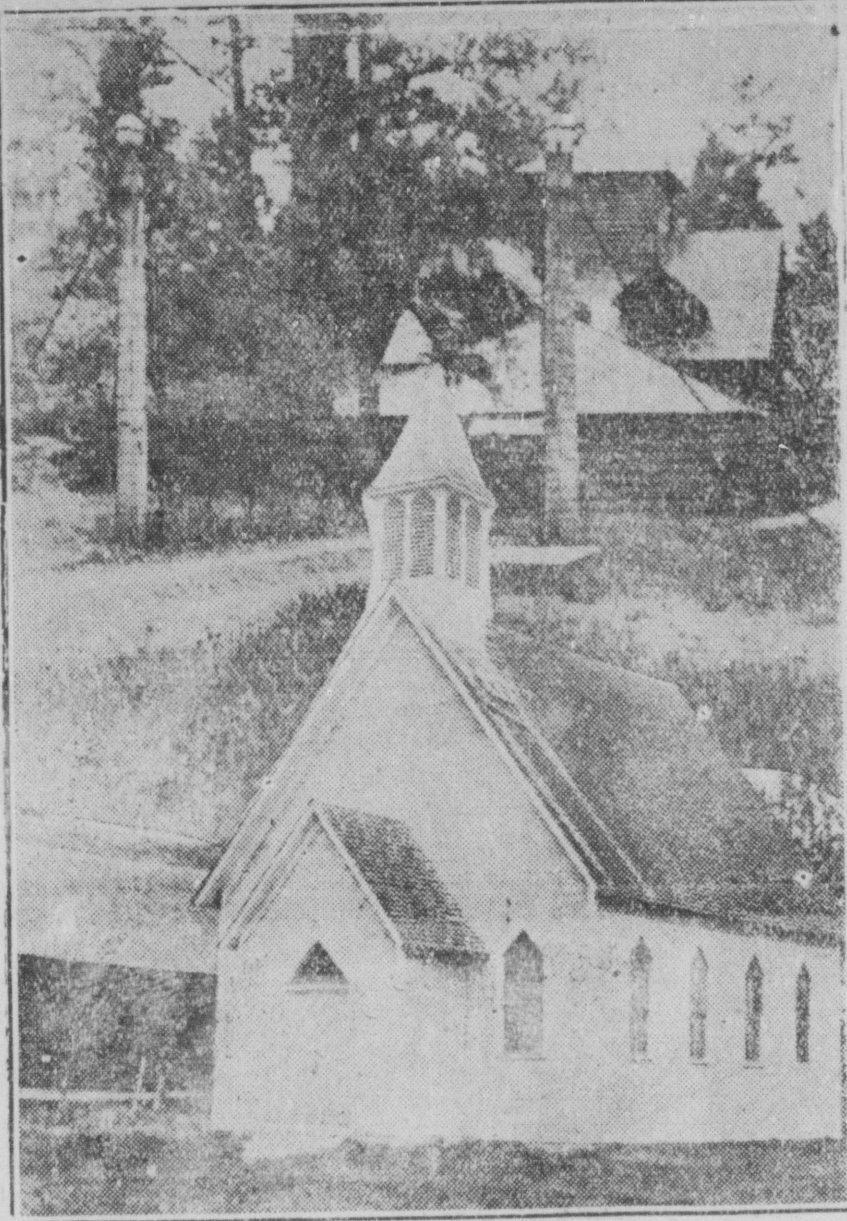

This program will be conducted from a special train which will be set on the siding at Derby Livestock yards. Hog raisers cannot afford to miss this program and all livestock farmers are urged to take advantage of this demonstration.

IS NAMED AGENT OF AETNA HERE

H. Hitchcock, of Circleville, has been named agent for the Aetna Insurance company in Circleville and Pickaway-co. This company is making rapid advances, Mr. Hitchcock says.

Every existing record for a single day's business in the history of the Aetna Life Insurance company was thrown into utter discard on May 16, when field representatives of the company, in recognition of Vice-President K. A. Luther's 30th anniversary as an "Aetna-izer," reported the writing of 2014 life insurance applications amounting to $11,115,565 of new business.

These figures, released Thursday by headquarters of the K. A. Luther Testimonial campaign, testify eloquently to the esteem with which Mr. Luther is held by the members of the Aetna organization. They set a new company record of more than double the number and amount reported on any single day prior to the anniversary.

One of the outstanding features of the day's achievement from the company standpoint, is the fact that no application of the 2014 is for more than $150,000, the bulk of them ranging in amount from $1,000 to $25,000.

HOMES WRECKED AND SCORE HURT IN WIND

McCOOK, Nebr., June 12.—Wrecking more than 100 homes and injuring a score of persons, some seriously, a tornado swept a wide path through McCook last night.

The twister struck the residence district, but the entire city was thrown into confusion as power and communication lines went down, impeding rescue work. Physicians were besieged with calls to care for the injured, and volunteers searched the ruins for possible fatalities.

The storm began near Ludell, Kan., and descended upon McCook from the southwest. Sign boards were lifted high into the air and automobiles were crumpled into masses of twisted steel.

SHOOT WIFE AND THEN KILLS SELF

WARREN, O., June 12.—John Ogrino, 40, shot and killed his wife Ursula, then turned the gun on himself and died, following a quarrel today.

Their little child told police that Ogrino, after arriving in the morning from his work, began a quarrel with his wife and abused her. Mrs. Ogrino seized a blunt instrument and struck her husband over the head, the child said.

Ogrino then went for a revolver and fired twice at his wife as she ran onto the porch. She was killed instantly. He then turned the pistol on himself and was dead 10 minutes after he was taken to the Warren city hospital.

PIG SPECIAL TO AGAIN STOP IN PICKAWAY-CO

On June 19 Farmers Will Have Chance To See Swine Demonstration

Just a year ago, close to 400 Pickaway-co farmers enjoyed the postmortem demonstrations and the lectures which were given during the Swine Special which stopped at Mt. Sterling and Orient.

The program will consist in post mortem demonstrations of infected pigs, moving pictures showing the life habits of the young worm and methods of combating it; lectures on "Feeding and Swine Management," by Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the Bureau of the Animal Industry, Ohio Experiment Station and a lecture by Dr. E. M. Nighbert, United States Department of Agriculture on "Saving the Pigs."

This program will be conducted from a special train which will be set on the siding at Derby Livestock yards. Hog raisers cannot afford to miss this program and all livestock farmers are urged to take advantage of this demonstration.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Baseball fans up and down this broad land are claiming to be mystified by the continued presence of the Cincinnati Reds at the top of the National League's hectic pennant race.

But there really isn't much cause to call the Reds the "surprise" team of the season. The gang led by Jack Hendricks finished fifth last year and hasn't been changed much. But that fifth place finish was a great achievement for the club, because of the bad start.

This spring the Reds, strengthened by the addition of Marty Callaghan, an outfielder and hitter of great ability, have picked up where they left off last fall, and are making the pace for the rest of the pack in a fashion that should convince anyone they mean business.

At the Polo grounds yesterday they went into the ninth inning three runs behind and promptly put on a batting rally of four singles and a homer to grab five runs and win, 7 to 5, thus eliminating the Giants as an immediate challenger for the lead.

Eliminating challengers is what they have been doing ever since they assumed leadership of the league on May 22, by beating the Pirates there have been no fewer than half a dozen days since then on which they had to win or lose the lead.

And they won every time. Sunday was one of those days. The Giants were all ready to step into first place but the Reds tramped on their toes 3 to 0 and then knocked them further down today.

The leaders now are on a 24 day trip and so far have won 11 games and lost seven. They started this jaunt at St. Louis May 24 and had to win their second day out to keep the Cardinals from taking first place away from them. When they got through with the Cardinals Bill McKechnie's team was in fourth place.

At Chicago Decoration day, it was necessary that the Reds win the morning game to keep the Cubs from taking the lead away from them. So they made a good holiday of it by winning both games and booting the Cubs down to fourth place.

As a road club, the Reds are far and away the best in the senior league this year, and it's a matter of history that the teams which have done the best on the road in this league the last two years, are the ones that won the pennant.

The strongest point about Cincy's team is its defense, not its pitching so much as the smoothness of its infield. Horace Ford and Hughie Critz respectively, the shortstop and second baseman, of the Reds, are treating the fans around the National League to the greatest defensive ball they ever have seen. They make the old Tinker and Evers combination of Chicago's halcyon days just a fond memory.

Right now, Red Lucas, Carl Mays and Adolph Luque, three of baseball's ablest right hand pitchers, are laid up with injuries. George Kelly also is too lame to play first and Ethan Allen, a corking outfielder, likewise is crippled.

With these five men out, the Reds last week had a big slump, for them. They lost three straight and on the week dropped four out of five. They were pretty nearly worn out when they tackled the Brooklyn Dodgers, the one club that has their number this year. But they snapped out of their slump as soon as they got up against a team that was crowding them and now they believe they'll wind up this long trip in Philadelphia Saturday in first place and go home to an admiring throng of Redland fans just as they left—as the leaders of the hottest flag race baseball has seen for many a day.

BEBE SCORES HIT
When it comes to providing excellent motion picture entertainment and a steady series of laughs, Bebe Daniels, Paramount star, has no equal among comedians.

The dark eyed star of the screen again proved this at the opening of her latest farce, "Feel My Pulse," which is now showing at the Metropolitan theater.

Funny situations, fast action and many thrills go together with Miss Daniels and this production is no exception. It is a combination of "Senorita," "Swim, Girl, Swim," and "She's a Sheik," her recent successes, all rolled into one and, although the story is different it is refreshingly so and is real entertainment from the start right through to the finish.
